THE WIDESPREAD CIRCULATION and acknowledged ability of these popular Magazines, render long descriptions and elaborate puffery unnecessary. They are known and read in every corner of our country, and are as household words in the mouths of those who pretend to judgment in Literature or taste in Art. The pens of our most accomplished writers, as well as the burins of the ablest artists, are enlisted to enrich and adorn their pages—and all that is now famous in letters or beautiful in engravings, in the world of periodical literature, is owing to the fostering care and lavish expense of these two prominent American periodicals.

Their imitators fail always in equalling them, for want of public support, and the poor dupes who are led to subscribe to the hastily-born enterprises which spring up every year to delude the public, with promises of wind and words of sound, find that these well-established works are, as yet, the only reliable sources to which they can look for a faithful performance of all contracts entered into with subscribers.
